Exploring funding models: a funder's perspective

Who I am:

—Foundation Manager for The Utley Foundation – a private family foundation

—Backers of the Music and Dementia Campaign

—Distributed £620k through the Paul and Nick Harvey Fund, in less than 6 months, mostly to socially prescribed activities

—MA in Philanthropic Studies from the Centre for Philanthropy at the University of Kent

Research specialism in family foundations and the behaviour of first generation UHNW philanthropists with family foundation structures

— Philanthropy and Funding Consultant for National Academy for Social Prescribing

The funding landscape:

- Quite segmented, but crowded many funders crossing over
- —Funders are 'new' to social prescribing often may not realise they are supporting socially prescribed activities
- —Models for sustainable funding of social prescribing activities are emerging, but they're not ready quite yet
- —The relationship with the NHS may be complicated for funders
- —Funders are interested in leveraging impact
- —Funders want low-risk investments, with high impact results

A funder's perspective:

- Each funder/funding organisation is unique
- Most funders will receive >50 unsolicited applications a month
- Most funders have easily discernible 'patterns'
- Grant managers are constantly balancing your organisational needs, the needs of their Trustees and their knowledge of impact/the sector
- Most funders aren't clued up on social prescribing (yet!) but have a distinct interest in funding 'good' in a causal area

Translating your work:

Social prescribing specifics:

- Take some time to explain social prescribing (maybe use some evidence from NASP's evidence bank)
- Emphasise the reduction in pressure on the NHS/primary care
- Be clear that social prescribing supports and enhances the current system, it does not replace it
- Consider consortia working does this make your evidence more powerful?
- Consider your long term plan...

A few general tips to consider:

- Who the letter/email/correspondence is addressed to
- How you approach the funder letter versus email

Key takeaways:

- Funders have responsibility for making funding available and making it work
- Identifying impact and success is key for funders
- Consortia working could be powerful
- Explaining the link to the NHS and impact for the individual is key
- Link it back to a key causal area
- Funders appreciate honesty, and will do their best to reflect that back
